FASHIONS.

Swell Apparel for Summer Travel.

It is said that when a fashion becomes universally popular it is time for it to be changed, but the exception is exemplified in the shirt waist, which, from year to year, takes a stronger hold upon the woman who wishes to be always chic and natty. Perfect in cut and fit it must be, bearing in every line the sign mark of the best work and the cleverest artist.

In my illustration I have depicted for you one of Forsythe's daintiest models, which is worn with a beautifully cut long-coat costume. With such a costume milady is ready for all but the most formal occasions, which is an advantage to one who is to scurry over the face of Europe, where much luggage is a nuisance and when provision must be made for many emergencies with comparatively little. To her, then, the shirt waist is even more of a boon than to her stay-at-home sister. But whether she stays in on place or travels, shirt waists in plenty must receive first consideration in selecting her summer outfit.

Another important item of dress that should receive consideration second only to the shirt waist, is the trotting frock. It should be severe and trim and of all things it should be made by one experienced in tailor-mades and fitted over a correct model of corset. With a properly fitting corset the abdomen is kept down and the hips reduced in size, thus attaining the fashionable figure. Of the many corsets that aim at this important result the C B a la Spirite certainly accomplishes it and with entire comfort.

Now a word about white, of which so much is worn. The shade of white selected is very important.

Let the average woman beware of dead-white. Dead-white has a host of rivals in the various creams, ivory, etc., and every woman should realize there is a vast difference in the becoming quality of these tones and should know just what best suits her own coloring. HELEN ADAIR.

Street Costume of Bluet Hopsack.

A stylish costume is an absolute necessity, and an evidence of good taste and workmanship is shown in a gown of bluet hopsack. This has a novel collar, which gives the long-shouldered effect and the strappings of which cross in front, and are completed with an ornament of pendants. Narrow plaits supply decoration, and all of the stitching, a great deal of which appears on the bottom of the skirt and just above the strappings on the skirt, is done with Corticelli stitching silk of the same shade, size D. This silk comes on one-quarter ounce spools, and has generally been adopted by the best dressmakers, since it is just the right size and twist for stitching purposes.

The pouched or blouse front is fast being superseded by the deep corselet and long narrow buckle, suggesting the pointed stomacher, and many evening bodices show the pointed lower edge. Large floral patterns obtain for the thin gown for warm days, and a prodigious display of coarse lace set on white bobbinet and shirtings will be the salient feature. The exaggerated long shoulders will be given by the deep lace collars of all descriptions and construction, and when these are not employed Schus daintily ruffled and frilled will replace them.

Southern Fruit and Vegetable Growing.

The fertile lands along the Louisville & Nashville R. R. in Alabama, West Florida and Mississippi are veritable bonanzas for the fruit grower and truck gardener. One man sold from one single acre, 100 barrels of radishes for $900.00, gross; another patch of 4 acres radishes yielded $1,463.00, net. In the spring of 1902, another truck gardener sold 300 barrels of potatoes in Pittsburgh from 3 acres of ground for $1,548, and after paying all expenses, cleared $802.00, or $267.33 per acre. Within two weeks after selling his potatoes, corn was up and watermelon vines were running on the same land. He harvested his corn, sold his melons, and afterwards cut two crops of hay off the same land and on January 20, 1903, was planting it again in potatoes. Strawberries yield from $300.00 to $550.00 per acre; as high as 12,480 quarts of luscious berries have been grown on a single acre. Address
